

Goddess Rising

(1973-2018)

To listen or download this “Demo” in progress, left click on photo below
(scroll past Renaissance drawing for the lyrics)

Practica Musicae (Music Of The Spheres) by Franchinus Gafurius (1496)

Shy sly Lorelei
She tried to climb the sky
Femme fatality
Now she surfs a stormy sea
I should have saved here when I could
But I'd moved into the woods
Lose my mind in this dream

Amarantha's wild
She found her inner child
Dancing down the street
Toward the protests in bare feet
I should have joined her when I could
But I'd moved into the woods
Lose my mind in the stream

I proposed to Coyote in "Holy Toledo"
That is what she called it though
She lived in Ohio
A greenstone was the birthday gift she gave me
Singing "The Grail's secret is in the sky
Left here by a band of angels from on high"
They fly the sky
We drove true north to the Detroit convention
Camped out on a Belle Isle beach
And listened to The Gipper's speech
We sped due west to the shore at Macatawa
Swam barenaked in Lake Michigan
Then followed the Dune Sand Road of Baum's Wizardry
(Like Dorothy)
Up to God's Country (The Evergreen U.P.)

Mysterious Faline
Worships a Celtic Queen
Transcendental tryst
She will guide me through this mist
Her love is the great unknown
In our dark Broceliande
Lose my mind in this dream

Lose my mind in the stream
River Son

Where's Ringo?

© Young Deer Enterprises. All Rights Reserved.